Know impact of every regulatory update on every team in your organization

AI-Powered. Actionable.

Introduction

In today's fast-paced insurance landscape, staying compliant isn't just about checking boxes - it's about keeping up with a constantly evolving regulatory environment. But for most compliance teams, that's easier said than done.

The Challenge: A Complex and Fragmented Landscape

Regulatory changes come from a wide range of sources:

- State Departments of Insurance Bulletins
- State Administrative Registers
- NAIC Model Laws
- Governor's Emergency Orders
- Federal Laws
- State Legislative Websites

With regulations dispersed across so many channels, staying on top of changes is a massive task. Compliance professionals are expected to monitor and interpret complex information, often manually, while also managing day-to-day responsibilities. This leads to four major challenges:

1. Distributed Channels

Regulatory requirements are spread out across multiple platforms, leading to a fragmented and inefficient monitoring process.

2. Unstructured Information

Each state has its own set of rules, formats, and publishing styles—making the navigation and interpretation of regulations time-consuming.

3. Regulatory Overload

Frequent updates from numerous sources make it incredibly hard for teams to keep track of what's new and what has changed.

Many organizations still rely on manual processes, increasing the risk of missed updates and potential non-compliance.

The Solution: How Comply Simplifies Regulatory Compliance

Comply is built to address these very challenges. It's not just another tool—it's a smarter way to stay ahead.

1. Centralized Compliance Platform

Comply brings all regulatory updates into one place. No more tracking multiple websites. No more missing deadlines. Just clear, current insights that help your business stay on top of every state's rules.

2. Simplified AI Integration

Using AI, Comply transforms complicated legal language into understandable, actionable insights. You don't need a large team or legal background to stay compliant—just the right technology.

3. AI-Driven Update Notifications

Comply constantly scans for new regulations and changes, delivering timely alerts tailored to your business needs. No more refreshing government websites or scanning PDFs.

Final Word

For compliance teams already stretched thin, every hour counts. That's why Comply is on a mission to save 1 hour per day for every compliance professional—by removing manual work, reducing noise, and giving you the clarity you need to act with confidence.
